TERMS OF REFERENCE FOR A DETAILED COMMUNICATIONS NEEDS ASSESSMENT AND STAKEHOLDER PERCEPTIONS MAPPING EXERCISE FOR DFCCIL

INTRODUCTION

The Dedicated Freight Corridor Corporation of India Limited (DFCCIL) was set up in 2007 by the Government of India (GOI) as a Special Purpose Vehicle (SPV) wholly owned by the Indian Railways (IR). DFCCIL was created with the objective of augmenting the freight carrying capacity of IR by building and operating critical freight carrying infrastructure.

To begin with, DFCCIL will be constructing two corridors – the Western Dedicated Freight Corridor (DFC) and the Eastern DFC spanning a total length of about 3300 route kilometers (kms). The Eastern DFC will start from Ludhiana in Punjab and will pass through the states of Haryana, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Jharkhand terminating at Dakuni in West Bengal. The Western Corridor will traverse the distance from Dadri (Uttar Pradesh) to Mumbai (Maharashtra), passing through the states of Delhi, Haryana, Rajasthan, Gujarat and Maharashtra.

The Program proposed for World Bank financing would construct 1130 km of the Eastern Corridor from Ludhiana in Punjab to Mughal Sarai in Uttar Pradesh, which includes the most heavily congested sections of this corridor, and connects ports and coal mining areas in the east to consumption centers in the north-west of the country. The new line will have several connections with the existing IR corridor enabling diversion of freight trains from IR routes to the DFC.

The development objectives of the Eastern DFC Program are:

- (i) To meet growing freight and passenger demand in the eastern corridor (Ludhiana-Delhi-Mughal Sarai), with a greatly improved levels of service; and
- (ii) Develop the institutional capacities of IR for long range investment planning, and of IR and DFCCIL to build and operate the DFCs.

OBJECTIVES OF THE ASSIGNMENT

The key objective of the assignment is to help DFCCIL develop and implement a robust strategy for external communications. The specific objectives of the strategy would be

- (i) Create, enhance and sustain a positive image of the company and the work that it is doing vis-à-vis its important stakeholders and
- (ii) Put in place appropriate systems and mechanisms through which the organization is able to share information with its stakeholders in a fair, nuanced, transparent, timely and consistent manner.

In the course of preparing this project, DFCCIL has felt the need to ramp up its communication capacity in order to meet several challenges, including:

- (i) Ensuring that project affected people in the project area are fully consulted and informed of their entitlements and compensation, and can readily access information relevant to themselves and the project.
- (ii) Consulting with those not directly affected in the project area about their needs and keeping them apprised of activities by the company to benefit them.
- (iii) Publicizing the benefits of the project to the larger public, including regular updates and announcements about project developments and progress.

- (iv) Meeting the requirements of the Right to Information Act, and in general upholding best practices in transparency and disclosure.
- (v) Maintaining strategic engagement with the local, national and international media.
- (vi) Being able to respond to challenges and criticism from groups opposed to the development of the freight corridors, both at short notice and over a sustained period.
- (vii) Needing to project a modern, professional corporate image.

In order to meet the challenges enumerated above, DFCCIL wishes to engage the services of a reputed communications consultancy firm to conduct a detailed communications needs assessment of all the organization's stakeholders and recommend the steps necessary to professionalize its communications set-up both at corporate and field level. The communication plan developed after the CNA exercise would need to address the information needs / demands of the stakeholders, and suggest measures to fill the existing information and perception gaps of the stakeholders' vis-à-vis the project.

The Communications Needs Assessment would delve into the following:

- (i) To establish the "audience" / "consumers" of DFCCIL through a comprehensive stakeholder mapping
- (ii) Establish what the different stakeholders wish to know about the project
- (iii) To gauge if the organization has enough / relevant material and / or mechanisms to address these information needs
- (iv) To gauge what the different stakeholders feel/ think about the project
- (v) Identifying the communications needs of the stakeholder groups
- (vi) To assess the information gaps among stakeholder groups
- (vii) To analyze the communication process internally and externally for its effectiveness
- (viii) To suggest a clear communication plan to bridge the gaps with its strategy, tools and media after sample testing the suggestions.

TERMS OF REFERENCE:

- Visit the project sites along the Eastern Corridor (which includes 5 major field offices in Allahabad (East and West), Kanpur, Meerut and Ludhiana), and the corporate headquarters (in Delhi) to assess the current level of communication infrastructure, manpower and skills through interviews with the top management, personnel currently carrying out activities related to communications, other relevant officers and field staff as well as physical inspection of premises and facilities.
- Assess the efficacy of the mode of functioning and organization of DFCCIL's present range of communication efforts, such as media interface, publicity material, etc.
- Desk review of the relevant documents related to the project, other Govt. and Non Govt. programmes to know the tools and media used.
- Assess the information needs of different stakeholder groups such as (i) project affected people (covering all the states along the Eastern Corridor – i.e. West Bengal, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Haryana, Punjab) and chosen, on a sample basis, from areas where major land acquisition has already taken place and is likely to take place) (ii) other people in project areas, (iii) district administrations and other departments dealing with DFCCIL, (iv) local media and local NGOs, (v) DFCCIL's business associates, (vi) national and international activist groups, etc through interviews with representative groups and individuals, and reading of relevant literature.
- Documenting the existing awareness materials, if any, across the project areas.
- Understanding the media consumption habits of stakeholder groups (Radio, Television, Newspapers / periodicals, Traditional Media, Special events and any other).
- Examining average perception and comprehension level of staff vis-à-vis the projects separately and appropriate communication support for building up their level.
- Analyzing communication gap in dissemination of information / technology by DFCCIL staff and the other stakeholder, along with recommended remedial measures.

- Finding out focal theme of campaigns on various issues and action points in Institution Building, Livelihoods, Social Development, Micro Finance, Marketing etc.
- Preparation of an exhaustive list of campaigns needed through various media.
- To assess the prospects of ICT (internet portal) linkage among the different stakeholder groups.
- To examine other possible methods of sharing of knowledge, branding through web medium and creating a loop like Solution Exchange.
- To derive other possible mechanism to enhance the free flow of information between the staff and other stakeholders using special systems and technology.
- To find out the feasibility of production of area specific IEC materials, internal communication systems and preparation of learning documents at district level.
- Derive an exhaustive communication strategy for reaching out to all the categories of target audience, the IEC materials required for each category and for each relevant issue.
- To examine the feasibility of convergence of IEC materials between allied agencies in the project states like the Zonal / Divisional Railways, etc. and suggest sector wise strategy.
- Highlight multiple media / methods for addressing each issue for maximum penetration at different stages of adoption (e.g. awareness, interest, trial, conviction, adoption).

APPROACH & METHODOLOGY :

A mix design approach is proposed for the CNA with judicious mix of qualitative and quantitative component. With a quasi-experimental design, the specific tools should be included like Focus Groups Discussions, in-depth Interview and review of the project / non project documentation among others.

DELIVERABLES & TIMELINE:

The consulting agency will have to submit all its research findings along with the detailed communication needs assessment and perceptions mapping report to the client within a period of 75 days from the signing of the contract.

The specific deliverables include:

- An Inception Report

The inception report would need to be submitted within 15 days of signing the contract. In the inception report, the consultant would be expected to detail the scope, methodology and approach being adopted for the subsequent tasks.

In addition, the consultant would also be expected to present the survey approach including key stakeholders, sample size, sample selection methodology and survey instruments most suitable to collect information (questionnaire, Focus Group Discussions, in-depth interviews, etc.).

- A Detailed Communications Needs Assessment Report

The detailed Communications Needs Assessment (CNA) Report would need to be submitted within 75 days of signing the contract.

The detailed CNA report would need to:

- Identify all key stakeholders (individuals, groups and institutions) and detail their interests, concerns and expectations, roles and relationships vis-a-vis the proposed program. These stakeholder groups shall include, but not be limited to, officials from various levels of government, including relevant government departments and utilities; policymakers and local politicians; NGOs and community-based organizations; faith-based organizations; media at the local, state and national levels; local communities and elected and popular representatives of people; and other opinion-makers.
- Identify likely reaction patterns of stakeholder groups (in terms of likely support/opposition for the proposed program); their sources of information; their influencers and opinion-moulders; their exposure and reaction to similar past experiences with development projects that involved involuntary displacement of people; and their qualitative assessment of these past exercises.
- Make a sophisticated assessment of the key messages, points of 'connect', and medium needed to interact with/influence each stakeholder group -- this will entail identifying their most credible sources of information.
- Identify individuals/groups/institutions that can be potential partners in the interface with each stakeholder group.
- Identify key opportunities/platforms for the effective dissemination of key messages over the course of project implementation

In addition, based on the CNA assessment and in the context of the challenges of the project, the consultants would be expected to recommend:

- (i) An appropriate communications set-up for DFCCIL at both corporate and field level, outlining the personnel required, their skill sets, and reporting arrangements;
- (ii) Improvements (if any) to be made to the websites, print products, and other ongoing communication work;
- (iii) Specific training and skill enhancement vis-à-vis communications, if required, for existing personnel of DFCCIL in its various offices;

(iv) A sequence of steps to address the external stakeholders' communication needs and a plan to enhance the perception about the project amongst its key stakeholders
