Special Conditions and Specifications
FOR GEOTECHNICAL INVESTIGATION

2.1 Field Investigation – in SOIL

Boreholes shall be drilled at specified locations to obtain information about the sub soil profile, its nature and strength and to collect soil samples for strata identification and conducting laboratory tests. Ground Levels with respect to GTS Bench Mark shall be taken at bore hole location before start of drilling and recorded on bore hole chart. The minimum diameter of the borehole shall be 150 mm and boring shall be carried out in accordance with the provisions of IS: 1892. The depth of the individual borehole shall be generally 40m. In case, boring is required for more than 40m for design/ any other purpose, the same should be done with the approval of ENGINEER INCHARGE. If borehole is terminated in less than 40m depth in soil with the approval of ENGINEER INCHARGE, payment will be made pro-rata basis.

a) Standard Penetration Test

SPT shall be conducted by standard spilt spoon sampler at every at required interval starting from first sample at 1.5m depth or at the change of stratum as per IS: 2131. The test shall be performed by driving the sampler with 63.5 kg hammer falling through a free fall height of 75cm. Number of blows shall be recorded for every 15cm penetration down to a maximum depth of 45 cm. Number of blows required to penetrate the last 30cm is taken as SPT „N" value. On extracting the sampler, soil entrapped in the sampler shall be taken and representative soil sample shall be preserved as disturbed sample in polythene bags to prevent loss of fines.

b) Collection of Undisturbed Sample

Undisturbed soil sample shall be collected from clayey/sandy/silty strata at 3.0m intervals starting the first sample at 3.0m depth in 100 mm diameter thin walled steel samplers of about 50 cm length with built in tapered cutting edge at the driving end. These tubes shall be pushed at the bottom of the borehole by hammering, penetration being restricted to 45 cm. on extracting the sampler loose material shall be removed from the other end of cutting edge and then sealed with paraffin wax to avoid loss of moisture. Sample tubes shall be transported to laboratory for testing.

2.2 Field Investigation – in Rock

- a) Core drilling shall be done by diamond core drilling machine using diamond bit. The feed or thrust to the drilling bit shall be actuated by hydraulic RIG. The equipment or set up shall be capable of recovering at least 75% of the drilled volume. The diamond core drilling equipment and procedure for drilling shall conform to IS: 6926. The equipment shall be provided with necessary facilities to regulate the spindle speed, bit pressure and water pressure during core drilling to get good core recovery.
- b) Drilling shall be carried out with NX size diamond tipped drill bits or impregnated diamond bit depending on the type of rock encountered. Double tube swivel core barrel conforming to IS: 6926 shall be used to ensure good core recovery and to pick up cores from the layers of rocks. Suitable core catches shall be used to ensure continuous and good core recovery.
- c) In general, the drilling run shall be of 1.5 m length, however this can be increased to 3.0m provided the core recovery is observed more than 80% in two successive 1.5m drill run. In boulder strata and highly weathered/jointed rocky strata having core recovery less than 20%, SPT shall be conducted in vertical boreholes at an interval of 3m or wherever there is change in strata.

- d) Wherever rock is encountered depth of borehole shall be done for 5m in hard rock or 5m below the level where $(CR+RQD)/2$ is more than 30%. In that case payment shall be made for complete rate as quoted in item no-NS5 and no pro-rata payment shall be made.

2.3 Laboratory Testing

Routine laboratory testing on soil/rock samples shall be carried out. Type & number of tests will depend on availability of samples and shall be decided by GT experts/Consultants but with the approval of ENGINEER INCHARGE

- a) Types of tests on Undisturbed/Disturbed Samples of soil will be out of:
- (i) Visual and Engineering Classification.
 - (ii) Sieve Analysis and Hydrometer Analysis.
 - (iii) Liquid Limit, plastic limit, and Plasticity Index.
 - (iv) Specific Gravity.
 - (v) Bulk Density and Moisture Content.
 - (vi) Unconfined Compressive Test on selected samples.
 - (vii) Direct Shear Test.
 - (viii) Consolidation test on selected samples.
 - (ix) Triaxial shear test (U.U)
- b) Type of test on selected Rock Samples will be out of :-
- (i) Specific Gravity
 - (ii) Unconfined Compressive strength test
 - (iii) Density Test
 - (iv) Porosity, moisture content and water absorption test.
 - (v) Hardness Test
 - (vi) Point Load Test
 - (vii) Modulus of elasticity
 - (viii) Abrasion test
- c) Conducting chemical analysis of ground water samples
- d) Conducting chemical analysis of soil samples

2.4 Report to be Submitted:

After completion of the Geotechnical Investigation work, the Consultant shall submit the results of tests on various samples of each bore hole in a proper tabular form as per relevant IS codes along with his detailed Report in six copies.

Geotechnical report shall cover the geology and seismicity of area, details of lab test results, borelog details. Levels in bore log chart, shall be shown with respect to GTS Benchmark. Based upon field and lab results, the Consultant will work out two options i.e. pile as well open foundation. For open foundation, net allowable bearing capacity will be worked out based upon bearing pressure and settlement criteria. For pile foundations, safe design load carrying capacity and safe uplift capacity and safe lateral load capacity of pile foundation will be worked out. Based upon the test details and site conditions, type of foundation will be recommended by the Consultant. Justification for adoption of pile foundation shall a part of Geotechnical report.

2.5 Miscellaneous:

If the Consultant does not have facility of any of the laboratory tests indicated herein, he is at liberty to get the testing done at any outside NABL accredited laboratory of reputed engineering college at his own expense. In such case, however the Consultant must explicitly state as to where he intends to get the samples tested and have the prior approval of the Engineer in charge.
